

ITP 104 Final Project Summary — Vivian Wu

For my ITP 104 Final Project, I created a website documenting what I have accomplished so far in my professional career. I digitalized my resume by listing everything that I've done on the website, and I provided a space for people to reach out to me in case they are interested in future collaborations together. I was also able to summarize the deliverables I can offer to brands and individuals and the skills I am confident in sharing. This website aims to demonstrate my skillset and offer my expertise to improve brands.

The extras I included are a form and several iframes. The contact form collects information, specifically requests for my work, from those interested in working together. This allows me to understand what is needed and reach out back to them in case I can support them in their endeavors. This may lead to future opportunities for me as well. I included iframes to display my resume and links to websites I've impacted. The iframes easily allow viewers to visualize and grasp what I have done so far and prove my skills.
